ArtERY Live Autumn Season

Mind-blowing theatre, toe-tapping music and the story behind one of the most powerful women in British trade union history will keep audiences in East Yorkshire fired up throughout the autumn months.

ArtERY Live returns this October with a variety of awe-inspiring shows which are sure to create a buzz in village halls and community centres throughout the area.

The fun kicks off with some wild and wonderful Flamenco from Ricardo Garcia. (www.flamencoflow.com) There will be two shows, Beverley, Oct 6, and Swanland, Oct 07. Ricardo's trio will cover the full spectrum of music, rhythm and dance and have performed at Edinburgh Festival on several occasions. Their unique delivery of the Spanish art-form from classic to contemporary creates a show like you've never seen before! Sit back and enjoy is our advice!

This will be followed by tales of espionage and adventure from Fluff Productions (www.fluffproductions.co.uk)

Agent of Influence: The Secret Life of Pamela More, explores the dilemma faced by Lady Pamela "fashion columnist and socialite, who is recruited by MI5 to keep notes on Wallis Simpson and Edward VIII, both of whom are suspected of colluding with the German Embassy.

Pamela soon discovers that what began as a thrilling adventure has led to a deadly struggle for power in a world in the shadow of war. Will she succeed in her quest? Come along and find out! This show, appearing in Lund on October 12, has received rave reviews from audiences all over the country, and will provide an explosive start to the new season.

Next up is something a little lighter. Keira Martin Dance's one woman show, Here Comes Trouble. Keira uses a blend of Irish and Contemporary dance theatre to share her autobiographical tale, drawing on social and cultural influences from Yorkshire, Ireland and Jamaica! Her heart-warming take on her own upbringing courageously addresses stereotypes and challenges labels. This show is feisty, powerful and most of all real! It kicks off in Bishop Burton, Oct 13.

A season wouldn't be complete without a fabulous Canadian act and this time we bring you some banging tunes from Tomato Tomato "an award-winning band made up of folk, bluegrass and old timey guitar. This group went down a treat at The Winnipeg, Stan Rogers and Lunenburg Folk Festival. The husband and wife duo, John and Lisa McLaggan, blend high-energy foot stompers and traditional folk which will have you singing all the way home. Showing in Beverley on November 09, it's bound to be an absolutely belting performance" so once again "book tickets early!

Regular fans will remember theatre company Townsend Productions who wowed audiences in East Yorkshire just two seasons ago with Daredevil Rides to Jarama. Now they are back with We Are The Lions Mr Manager "the inspiring tale of Jayaben Desai "one of the most powerful women in our history. The play tells the story of Jayaben's fight for dignity in the workplace, during the Grunwick Film Processing Factory Strike of 1976-78. Jayaben was one of many newly arrived
